SHARPENS YOUR THINKING

Dr Patricia Benner, Professor and Chair Thelma Shobe Endowed Chair in Ethics and Spirituality in Nursing, University of California, San Diego and Senior Carnegie Research Fellow will be visiting Sheffield Hallam University with her research colleague Dr Molly Sutphen

The Faculty of Health and Wellbeing is holding an afternoon conference in Sheffield on Friday 3 October 2008. You will be able to hear how recent research for nursing education provides an important message for all practising professionals in clinical and educational settings. The research, conducted for the Carnegie Foundation for Learning and Teaching, addresses the practice-education gap and the development of discipline specific pedagogical strategies for nursing.

Who should attend?

Nurses in education and practice who wish to debate and contribute to the next phase of nurse education modernisation. All practising professionals in clinical and educational settings with an interest in recent research in nurse education and the concept of integrative teaching and learning. Nurses and others interested in the development of knowledge to inform practice

Programme

- 12.00-13.00 Networking Lunch
- 13.00-13.15 Opening remarks
- 13.15-14.00 A presentation by three local and regional nurse representatives: Hilary Scholefield, Chief Nurse of Sheffield Teaching Hospitals Trust; Professor Kate Gerrish; Tim Curry, RCN Regional Policy Advisor.
- 14.00-15.30 Drs Benner and Sutphen will present 'key findings and recommendations from the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching, National Nursing Education Study. Strategies for addressing the Practice-Education Gap, and the development of discipline-specific pedagogical strategies for Nursing will be presented using examples from site visits and survey findings.'
- 15.30-16.00 Interactive Debate
