

Building Bridges

Training

Able to Include

Can you come to a focus group to talk about using apps?

Building Bridges Training is part of an European funded project, which aims to develop apps which will make using the internet easier for people with learning disabilities to use. This will be done by, creating apps that can, for example, showing pictures instead of words.

The new apps will need to be tested and this is where you come in.... However, first we need to find out more about what you can already do on a phone and the internet and how easy or difficult you find it and what would make it easier for you.

if you come to this meeting you may be invited to the next part of the project when you would have a 7" tablet to try out the new apps, and give us your feedback

You need to:

- Be willing to talk with other people in the group.
- Be committed to coming every time we get together
- Be willing to do a little homework when the apps are ready for testing out.
- Be good at listening to others and willing to ask questions if you do not understand.
