Personalisation and BAME communities: Finding the X factor

A consultation event: Learn from the PAST, plan for the future

What is the event about?

Valuing People says that advocacy was one of the ways people with learning disabilities could get more choice and control in their lives.

A Direct Payment is money your Social Services Department can give you. It is a new way of getting the support you need. Your advocate can help you with this.

We want to find out how well this is working for people with learning disabilities from black, asian, minority and ethnic communities.
