

How to break bad news to people with learning disabilities

A free one-day workshop for carers and professionals

Monday 28th November 10.30am-3.30pm

St George's University of London, 2nd floor Hunter Wing, Boardrooms 2-4

This innovative workshop is based on a new model/guidelines for breaking bad news to people with learning disabilities, developed by Dr Irene Tuffrey-Wijne and her team. It is the result of a two year research study.

- The day will have a strong practical focus, with a combination of lectures and interactive work.
- It is suitable for anyone involved in bad news situations with people with learning disabilities, including family carers and professionals in health and social care settings.
- Tea/coffee will be provided, but please bring your own lunch.
- Booking essential – places are strictly limited.

Places are allocated on a first come, first serve basis.
