

Better lives: a response to Winterbourne View

Wednesday 21 November 2012, 9.30am - 4.30pm
Tylney Room, Leatherhead Leisure Centre
Guildford Road, Leatherhead, Surrey KT22 9BL

In its review into abuse at Winterbourne View, the Department of Health concluded that: 'Only local action can guarantee good practice, stop abuse and transform local services'. This Continued Professional Development (CPD) conference will explore how local services can respond to this challenge by supporting people effectively and working together to meet people's needs.

Who should attend:

Anyone who works with people with learning disabilities and is interested in improving health and social care.

Keynote Speakers:

We are delighted to have three nationally acclaimed keynote speakers:

Professor Tony Holland, Consultant Psychiatrist/Researcher
University of Cambridge

Viv Cooper, Chief Executive, (and parent of a child with a learning disability)
Challenging Behaviour Foundation

Matt Hoghton, GP (and Learning Disability Clinical Champion)
Royal College of General Practitioners

You can attend your choice of two of six symposiums, exploring national research evidence and best practice around six key topics - and how this has been applied within local services:

1. Reducing health inequalities through working in the community
2. Role of future technologies
3. Assuring quality in assessment and treatment
4. Working with other agencies
5. Therapeutic approaches
6. Future challenges

An exhibition featuring a wide range of exciting projects and initiatives for local people with learning disabilities will also be on display at the event.

Lunch and refreshments will be provided. Disabled parking and access is available.
