Autism: Identification, Diagnosis and the Multidisciplinary Team

Autism Spectrum Disorder is not a rare condition. It affects at least 60 per 10,000 children under 8 years of age. The benefits of the early identification of ASD are recognised by parents and professionals alike.

Aim

This exciting two day course aims to provide a solid platform of understanding and skills to enable professionals to offer positive experiences in the areas of identification, assessment and diagnosis of autism for children and their families.

Who will attend?

Paediatricians, Clinical Psychologists, Speech and Language Therapists, Health Visitors, CAMHS team members, Educational Psychologists, Child and Family team members, strategic planners/commissioners.

The event will be attended by a maximum of 25 participants.

Course themes

- Autism: an evolving concept
- Formal definitions of autism, ICD10, DSM IV etc.
- DSM V? Looking forward
- Prevalence and incidence
- Screening tools and surveillance: what's the latest thinking?
- Diagnostic instruments: ADOS, interviews, video...
- Pathways to diagnosis: guidance, good practice, NICE
- Supporting families before, during and after diagnosis
- Introducing children and young people to a diagnosis of autism

More...

Learning outcomes:

At the end of the course participants will have:

- examined their practice
- enjoyed opportunities to network with other professionals
- explored in a highly interactive way their own opportunities for development and service improvement
- sharpened their skills in the areas of identification, assessment and diagnosis of autism
- increased their understanding and confidence with diagnostic systems and assessment tools
- explored the context in which identification, assessment and diagnosis of autism take place
- have an action plan that's ready to implement

Teaching and learning style

We get things started before the event with our unique online learning needs survey and a small amount of pre-course activity. The course will make use of presentation, case study, video, discussion and opportunities to examine and reflect upon current practice. All Participants will be given chance to explore a range of tools, ideas and resources. You will be encouraged to develop an individual action plan for future practice. All participants receive a quality file of learning materials and a CD ROM library of useful resources.

The team

The course is led by a skilled team who will bring out the best in everyone who participates. The emphasis is on reflection, learning specific skills, and increasing confidence.

The venue

This first class venue has been carefully selected to give participants a relaxed “away from the office” experience. It will provide the perfect setting to reflect on practice in a productive learning environment. The event programme offers plenty of time to enjoy the 300-acre grounds and sports facilities.

Cotswold Conference Centre is situated on the Farncombe Estate, just outside the picturesque village of Broadway in Worcestershire, less than 1 1/2 hours from London (Paddington to Moreton in Marsh) and only 1 hour from Oxford, Bristol & Birmingham.

Dr Greg Pasco recently joined the Institute of Education as Research Officer at the Centre for Research in Autism and Education.
