Celebrating individuality

Whilst most traditionally-oriented services are taking steps towards a more individualised approach, they still have a journey to travel.

Much current innovation in support is being driven by people with a learning disability themselves and those close to them. Join us in celebrating this progress.
