Developing One Page Profiles

One Page Profiles help show some of the important things to someone, why other appreciate them, and how to support them.

Course Aims

This course will help you work towards delivering personalised services by using One Page Profiles.

During the day you will

- develop the skills to use person centred thinking tools needed to develop a one page profile
- learn how to act on the profile
- gain an understanding of how using person centred thinking and one page profiles can help to deliver personalised services.

Course includes

- how to use person centred thinking tools to develop one page profiles with people supported and others who are present in their lives; by identifying and separating what is important to someone from what is important for them
- ensuring that the one page profile develops and grows
- using learning logs based on what individuals are telling us is working and not working in their lives and the importance of the process being reviewed

- recording how someone communicates through using a communication chart.
- how a one page profile can be the beginning and the foundation of a support plan
- how to decide which person centred thinking tools to use to develop a one page profile into a person centred essential lifestyle plan or a support plan.
