

are pleased to announce our new

Basic and Advanced EasyRead Training Day

Wednesday, 13th February 2013

At The Space Centre, 94 Judd Street, London

Our EasyRead training has had high demand and some stunning feedback, with all our training days sold out.

In addition, we have had people coming back wanting more, so we have now developed our advanced EasyRead training, running as an addition to our regular EasyRead Training.

So whether you are just starting out with doing your own EasyRead, or you have attended one of our previous EasyRead Training Days, then there is something for you!

The EasyRead training day has been conveniently split into 2 parts. We would of course recommend you attending both parts (in the same day), or if you would just like to know the basics, then attend part 1.

And if you have attended one of our previous Training Days, then Part 2 will be for you.

What some of our previous delegates have said

Our trainers, Richard West and Victoria Burley, have consistently received feedback scores of great or excellent in the ‘How to do EasyRead’ series of training sessions.

Here are just a few of the things people have said:

- really good comprehensive information
- the structure of training was good and having someone who has a learning disability as trainer meant we could get things from their perspective
- having Richard present to explain what service users need – “Expert by experience” explains his role perfectly
- having Richard who is a service user to co host with Victoria was very informative and helpful. It provided a good insight into what is required for people with a learning disability
- the practical section was very helpful
- enjoyed lots of info to take back and implement/share with colleagues
- thoroughly enjoyed the course. Very informative. Have picked up lots of ideas and tips
- the trainers were very friendly and informative. Explained everything very well.
