Getting on with it

Practical ways to support the health of people with learning disabilities

About the conference

This timely and important conference is aimed at practitioners, commissioners and providers in both mainstream NHS and specialist NHS and social care providers.

There is now overwhelming evidence of the inequalities in health faced by people with learning disabilities along with many examples of poor and discriminatory treatment.

However, there are also lots of good examples and solutions that have been 'tried and tested' to support positive change.

This conference aims to support delegates by clarifying the policy landscape and, importantly, sharing good practice from the 'work in progress' in local areas, across regions and nationally.

This conference will support those who are 'getting on with' the health agenda, no matter where they are in the journey. We will be hearing from speakers who have made progress in a range of settings, sharing key learning and problem solving.

Key themes

The conference will address:

- primary care
- acute care
- secure settings
- working with partnership boards
- standards for measuring success
- developing the workforce.

Who should attend?

- Practitioners
- Healthcare Commissioners
- Providers in mainstream NHS
- Specialist NHS Staff
- Social Care providers

About Debra Moore Associates

At Debra Moore Associates we are committed to helping people to commission and provide health services that are:

- person-centred
- safe and dignified
- high-quality and evidence-based
- equitable and inclusive.

Put simply – people want to feel that they and their family matter, that health services care about them and care enough to make sure that their health needs are met properly.

We do this in a range of ways and settings including:

- service improvement including specific support regarding Healthcare Commission audits and frameworks
- service evaluation, review and redesign
- support with NHS campus closure
- training in tools and technologies – person centred approaches, health action planning, health facilitation
- professional development including leadership and coaching
- team development
- partnerships with people and families – increasing participation, choice and control for health and well-being.
