

The Inclusion Web resource pack training day

To be held at The Priory Rooms, Birmingham
On Thursday 20th January 2011
Cost: £110 + VAT (includes a copy of the resource pack)

The Inclusion Web is an easy way to help people and the organisations who support them to look at the people and places in their life and how things may be changing over time. Developed by NDTi and refined over a number of years, the Inclusion Web has now been redesigned and is presented in an easy to use leaflet with step by step instructions.

This training day will:

- Consider how to evaluate a service that aims to promote inclusive lives
- Introduce the Inclusion Web as a person-centred assessment tool that helps people to make plans
- Show how combining data from many Inclusion Webs can generate statistics on whether your service is working
- Provide an opportunity to think about your own life by using the Inclusion Web yourself
- Show how to link together your Community Mapping and Person-Centred Planning activities

Facilitated by Peter Bates and Jo Seddon
