"One of the most powerful performances seen in Winchester for many years... a blend of moving dance with poignant scenes of prejudice and hate crimes... startling... wonderful."

THEATRE

Living Without Fear is a touring production from the award-winning Blue Apple Theatre.

Seamlessly blending drama and dance, mixing humour with tragedy, Living Without Fear explores our individual and collective responsibility in tackling disability hate crime.

In a new, updated script, the performance follows a group of young adults with learning disabilities as they strive to lead independent lives in the face of prejudice and daily harassment.

Everyone has the right to live without fear.

“incredibly powerful... moving....very impressive....leaves you thinking what shall I do?”

“One of the most valuable experiences we gave our students all year.”

“The stories were very hard hitting and realistic and put it all into horrifying perspective. The sensitive acting made me, and lots of other people in the audience, cry. The dancing was fabulous and very graceful. Excellent all round.”

Blue Apple Theatre showcases the talents of actors and dancers with learning disabilities. Formed 8 years ago, the company has now grown to a membership of over 70 and last year performed to over 3,500 people. We continue to develop the work we do and to increase the number of people we work with.
