Making information and communication easier to understand

This training event will enable you to improve your communication with people with learning disabilities and enable them to have good access to information. The training will cover verbal communication, written information, communication in meetings and public signage.

Learning Outcomes

- Understand how to improve verbal communication with people with a learning disability
- Understand the difference between plain English and Easy Read, and how to make letters and written information easier to understand with the use of easy words and pictures and good design and layout
- Understand how to run meetings where people with a learning disability can understand what is going on and can contribute
- Understand the particular needs of people with high individual communication needs, and people with sensory impairments

The training is delivered by Building Bridges Training through a mixture of presentations, personal stories from the first-hand experience of the trainers and group activities. Handouts are provided to support the training session, and a certificate of attendance will be given at the end of the course.

About us

Building Bridges Training is an independent social enterprise which makes a difference to people's lives through delivering training, demonstrating how everyone can contribute towards providing better support and improved services and true inclusion for all. Our training is co-delivered with trainers with a learning disability. We run regular events in Birmingham on topics such as community connecting, supporting people through loss and grief, making a difference for parents with a learning disability and developing a social enterprise. We also deliver commissioned training and run special courses for people with a learning disability.
