Dear Education Officer.

Learning disabled actors are continuing to get more work- in theatres, films and television - which is great!
But many still have difficulty in accessing good quality training.

The Government, through the LSC, helps talented actors to get training at some of the best drama schools in the country.
They do this through the Dance and Drama Awards scheme.
Now there is a chance for learning disabled actors to get some of this training too.

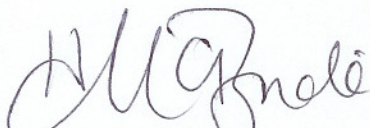

Mountview Academy of Theatre Arts is delighted to be co-ordinating Staging Change project as it goes in its fourth year.

Mountview is working in partnership with Mind the Gap, a professional theatre company that works with learning disabled actors.
Oxford School of Drama. Guildford Conservatoire and Arts Educational School will also be participating in the project.

The enclosed brochure will tell you all about Staging Change and how to be involved. Please look through it and pass the details and application form on to anyone who you think will benefit from taking part.

Time is running out though. Auditions end on June 1st 2007.

Thanks for your time

Hannah McBride
