

“Could it happen here? Inclusion, Protection and Regulation”

Dear colleague

We are delighted that you are interested in attending the 25th annual conference for Learning Disability Nurses. The annual conference has become the ‘must attend’ event in the diary of Learning Disability Nurses and this year we welcome you to the University of Bath. The conference presents the ideal opportunity for Learning Disability Nurses from across the United Kingdom and Ireland to share practice and develop networks.

There has never been a more important need to promote and support practice development and that is why the focus of the conference this year is on Inclusion, Protection and Regulation. The National network recognises that Learning Disability Nurses have a vital role in protecting some of the most vulnerable people in our society while recognising the need to support inclusion that enables ordinary lives. This means that what ever the focus of your practice, you will find the conference relevant and stimulating.

The National Network of Learning Disability Nurses has brought together a thought provoking conference programme, filled with key note speakers we are confident you will want to hear. There is the opportunity to submit an abstract to present a paper or poster at the conference. Further information is available at www.nnldn.org.uk. Joining the National Network of Learning Disability Nurses is free and provides the opportunity to link up and network with colleagues and share practice that improves the lives of people with learning disabilities.

We look forward to welcoming you to the conference.

Best wishes,

Michael Brown
