

CALLING ALL NURSING STUDENTS, HEALTH CARE ASSISTANTS AND ASSISTANT PRACTITIONERS WORKING WITH PEOPLE WHO HAVE A LEARNING DISABILITY ...
YOUR FORUM NEEDS YOU!

RCN Forums

Learning Disability Nursing

www.rcn.org.uk/forums

RCN forums are groups of RCN members working in a similar nursing specialty or with like interests. There are 38 forums working to shape and influence health policy across the UK. All RCN members can join three forums free of charge. These forums exist to represent the views and experiences of members in a nursing specialty, and to enable you to work with colleagues to develop and deliver the best possible patient care. The forums are constantly working to achieve real change locally, nationally and even internationally.

Join a forum for free

www.rcn.org.uk/joinaforum

www.rcn.org.uk/myrcn join online

RCN Direct 0345 772 6100 (and quote the number in brackets)

Other online communities covering a wide range of different specialisms and interests can also be found at www.rcn.org.uk/communities

RCN Learning Disability Nursing Forum (3018)

Aims to share best health care and nursing practice across the UK in order to promote excellence in care delivery to people who have a learning disability, supporting their families and carers within health and social care settings.