Next Steps is a multi-award winning user-led project run by the charity Speaking Up.

Next Steps runs high quality Life Skills courses to enable people with learning difficulties to develop the skills and confidence to realise their full potential and increase their independence, and has been praised for its outstanding practice by the Adult Learning Inspectorate.

The project has been running for 6 years, and has now developed a range of toolkits that can allow other organisations working with people with learning difficulties to deliver the programmes.

If you would like to attend and receive your free toolkits, network with other service providers in your area and find out more about Next Steps, please email rosie@speakingup.org or call Rosie on 01223 516753.
