

Learning Disability Nurse, story telling workshop

When: Wednesday 29th April 2009
9.30am - 4.00pm

Where: University of Huddersfield

Facilitated by Pip Hardy and Tony Sumner from Patients Voices.

The Patient Voices uses story telling to convey patients', carers', practitioners' and managers' own stories in a unique way. They are intended to touch the hearts of managers, clinicians and others striving to improve the quality of health and social care.

The Patient Voices workshop is run using a methodology developed and enhanced by Pip Hardy and Tony Sumner over several years for use in health and social care and educational settings.

The aim of a workshop is to facilitate storytellers in a journey through a process which will result in them producing a story which is 'Effective, Affective and Reflective' (Sumner, 2008).

Come along and learn about the use of stories in learning disability care, how to tell your own story and share your story with learning disability nurses.

The workshop is free to all and includes refreshments and lunch.

To book your place or for further information please contact:
Dr Su Shaw on 01484 473367 or email s.a.shaw@hud.ac.uk.

HUMAN AND HEALTH SCIENCES

Educating tomorrow's professionals