Introduction to Person Centred Planning in Transition

A half day course which serves as an introduction to PCP in transition.

Course Aims

This course aims to look at and try to understand how transition can impact young people. It looks to examine how the Real Opportunities Project works with young people, families and professionals to overcome some of the difficulties faced around transition.

The course will look forward to the statutory reform and how PCP will be used within the new Individual Development Plans.

Through group work and discussion the course will give participants the opportunity to try out some of the PCP tools and activities and a practice using them. It will also give you the chance to look at how to create a one page profile.

Designed for

Anyone working to support someone else through changes, particularly people working with young people or people with learning disabilities. School staff, social services LDD careers advisors and parents have already benefited from this course.

Introduction to Person Centred Planning in Transition

“Very useful, I was able to come up with some great ideas!”

“Valuable to find out new information”

“Very useful and can be used in a lot of different jobs and situations”

“Very useful for parents to gain an insight into the transition process”
