

Person Centred Care Planning Workshop

23rd June 2010
Team Talk, Rougier Street
York

"Care plans should have a person-centred approach and be based on a periodic review of care involving the individual concerned (where possible), the health/social care professionals involved and the carers"

Care Quality Commission 2010

Debra Moore Associates are pleased to announce this important workshop to support person centred care planning.

The workshop will specifically consider the issues related to planning with people with learning disabilities and mental health problems including those in secure services.

Issues covered include

- Meaningful user involvement in care planning and evaluation
- Using mechanisms such as CQUIN payments to improve standards
- Creating person centred secure environments
- Regulation and quality assurance
- Relationships between Care Programme Approach, Health Action Plans and Person Centred Plans

Who should attend?

Commissioners, providers and professionals providing health services for people with learning disabilities.
