

Teenage kicks...and beyond!

Supporting young people with learning disabilities into adulthood

What's it all about?

Making sure people with learning disabilities can have the same life chances as non-disabled people is a challenge. People, families and professionals agree on this. They also agree that getting the right support in place when people are young is crucial in making this happen. This session will explore:

- What is happening across the country to make this happen
- What is happening across the region to make this happen
- What you can do locally

The day will be run by members of the Preparing for Adulthood Team and Inclusion North.

Who should come along?

This day is open to member areas of Inclusion North only from Yorkshire and Humber. The day is aimed at anybody who has a role in supporting young people with learning disabilities to lead a life that makes sense to them.

Each member area can send up to 4 people. You will need to decide who comes along locally.

When and where will it be?

The session will be held in York on Friday the 28th of June and will start with tea and coffee at 10.15am with a prompt start at 10.30am. The session will finish at 3.00pm and lunch will be provided. You will be sent full details a week before the session.
