Restrictive physical interventions practice issues

CONFERENCE:

27 February 2008 • London

30 April 2008 • Kidderminster

Restrictive physical interventions practice issues

This event will focus on principles for practice in the prevention of challenging behaviour and the use of restrictive physical interventions within services. There will be a focus on the use of particular strategies, legal and ethical issues and implications of guidance. Importance will be placed on understanding principles for best practice and reducing the use of reactive strategies within organisations, the content will include:

- Defining restrictive physical interventions policy and practice
- Policy frameworks
- Reporting and recording
- Principles for practice

Aims of the day:

- To explore difficult issues for organisations who employ RPI's and train staff in the use of physical interventions
- To explore and discuss policy issues
- Define what an RPI is.
- To highlight principles for practice

Who should attend:

This day will be of interest to head teachers, teachers, managers of services, support workers and other professionals working with children, young people and adults who exhibit challenging behaviour associated with learning disability and autistic spectrum condition, emotional and behavioural difficulties.
