Building a New Story – learning from Canadian experiences with self-directed support

Speakers John Lord and Charlotte Dingwall from Facilitation Leadership Group, Ontario, Canada

Join us for an inspiring day as we look at insights from innovative approaches in Canada and reflect on our work in the UK.

A New Story is emerging across Canada involving the creation of individualised approaches and the strengthening of communities through the presence and participation of citizens with disabilities. These two events will give an overview of developments in Canada relating to the use of individualised funding, independent planning and facilitation / brokerage, and self-directed support. Strategies related to social innovation and inclusion will also be considered. Delegates will have an opportunity to consider how lessons learned so far might be applied in the UK.

Who should attend

- People with an individual budget (IB) or thinking about having an IB
- Family members supporting a person with an individual budget
- Anyone involved in implementing the personalisation agenda for examples from local authorities, user led organisations, provider organisations

Learning outcomes

From these events, delegates will understand more about:

- The development of self-directed support in Canada
- The experiences of individuals, their families, as well as, community service systems
- How we can use some of the lessons learned from Canadian experiences in the UK

About the speakers

John Lord is a researcher, facilitator, parent, and author. For almost 30 years, he has used research, education, and facilitation to create positive change in human services and communities.

Charlotte Dingwall is a facilitator, circle member, and author with more than twenty years of experience. She has provided facilitation training to people from many walks of life.

John and Charlotte are leaders of the Facilitation Leadership Group www.facilitationleadership.com
