This one day course is for professionals, including teachers, social workers, educational and clinical psychologists, who work with parents of children with special educational needs.

Based upon a new handbook and DVD 'Confident Parenting' (available September 2009), this course will train practitioners in the successful delivery of parental workshops, to empower parents of youngsters with learning difficulties to confidently manage their child. The new handbook and DVD is a result of innovative, specialist work, which has helped well over a hundred families come to terms with their child's special needs, behavioural difficulties, sleep problems and acceptance of their child's learning disability.

The course is led by Dr. Annette Hames, Clinical Psychologist and Chris Rollings, Head Teacher, Hadrian School, authors of 'Confident Parenting' who have been running parental workshops at Hadrian School in Newcastle for ten years.

'Confident Parenting' Handbook and DVD (retail price £95.00) is included in the cost of the course.

"For all of us who work, or plan to work with parents, this resource is essential. Annette and Chris have turned their many years of hands on experience into a resource that will benefit so many of us who aspire to support families with children who have additional needs."
