

PROOF READ BY

Would you like to work alongside people with learning disabilities and help to make a difference?

Jen was my aunt. She taught me so much about life, how to enjoy myself and have fun. Jen had learning disabilities and additional health needs which meant she needed some extra support with certain aspects of her life. As I was growing up, I attended many social events as a volunteer with Jen by my side. I later became her advocate, ensuring that everybody heard her voice. Completing my learning disability nurse training not only helped me to support others but has also given me fantastic career opportunities including counselling and psychotherapy training, working as a specialist community nurse managing a community team and teaching as a university lecturer.

Would you like to find out more about learning disability nurse training at the University of Wolverhampton?

Then come along to our:
'Learning Disability Nursing Careers Awareness Day'
23rd July 2007 – 10am - 1pm
University of Wolverhampton, Gorway Road,
Walsall WS1 3BD

Nurse training provides a non-means tested bursary to all diploma students. Entry requirements include 5 GCSEs or NVQ level 3 (or equivalent)

To book a place please contact Peter Eggison (Subject Leader) or Steve Neville (Senior Lecturer) on 01902 518800 or alternatively email: stevenville@wlv.ac.uk for further details.

www.wlv.ac.uk/soh

BIR Date: 09.07.07
Revise: 10.7.07
Size: 140X87 DAM
tmp.worldwide

Op: sd
4: gb
AH: gail
Esend: 208119
Pub: